

Guidelines for Literary and Graphic Usage

To Our Friends and Fellow Lunisolar Truth Seekers,

Greetings in the name of Yahushua, who has born our sins and raised us up in newness of life, and called us to bear testimony of His TRUTHS. We are honored to call each of you friends and fellow siblings by His adoption as sons and daughters.

While we have many of the same beliefs and goals of promoting the Truths of Yahushua for these last days, the staff at the Creator's Calendar believe that some literary guidelines are necessary and must be spelled out for the support and protection of all.

The staff of "The Creator's Calendar" puts in 8-14 hour days, six days a week, per person researching, writing, creating illustrations, responding to email inquiries, and posting on our website the truths revealed to us. This is our calling from heaven and our life's work. We depend upon our heavenly Father who has blessed us with this website to meet our financial needs. It is in the reading of our articles and word studies that Yahushua leads seekers of truth to freely give their financial support. This is how we are sustained. As we have been blessed we seek to bless all who visit our website by freely sharing any and all truths we have discovered.

Perhaps we have erred in making an assumption that all seekers have an equal knowledge of the same literary rules. These rules apply whether it is a bound book, magazine article, website article, presentation or graphics. When the rules are not adhered to, it is called plagiarism.

Merriam Webster's Collegiate Dictionary Definition

plagiarize— to steal and pass off (the ideas or words of another) as one's own; use another's production without crediting the source; to commit literary theft; present as new and original an idea or product derived from an existing source.

By not adhering to literary rules we hurt the cause of Truth as it is in Yahushua, which we each seek so much to promote. It is our experience that Yahushua who has begun a good work in you will enable you to both follow these guidelines and also bless you with brand new material of abundant dimensions.

Below are the guidelines established by www.TheCreatorsCalendar.com. We encourage you to also establish these same literary guidelines for your own websites.

If it is your desire to utilize our materials for your website or other media, in part or whole, from our articles, words studies, graphics, etc., they must remain unaltered and be accompanied by two things:

- 1) the author's name, and
- 2) the website address.

In the event that you wish to quote word for word, either a sentence or paragraph, the same rules would apply. In other words, please feel free to copy and paste, just so long as the credit is given to both the author along with our website address. This applies to the following presentations of www.TheCreatorsCalendar.com:

- Not limited to, all articles; word studies; definitions; graphics; images; poem; FAQ's; Testimonies; email letters; and News Letters produced by www.TheCreatorsCalendar.com.
- For your protection, in reference to images and graphics that have not originated by TheCreatorsCalendar, it is strongly recommended that you not use any. This is because we have paid for the "right" to use them from an Image Supplier. If you are discovered to have one of their copyrighted images without having purchased it, they will find these images, you may be fined up to $2,000 per image by the original image holder. These image suppliers are utilizing electronic means of searching the internet for and finding their images in an attempt to increase their own revenues. We will be happy to clarify which images are copyrighted and which ones are not, so that you may freely use them with our website attached.
- Concerning any and all graphics that have been developed specifically by www.TheCreatorsCalendar.com, these may be freely used providing the following guidelines are adhered to:
  1. There may be no altering of any illustrations of any type, graphically or textual.
  2. Any items that have been gleaned from our website, must have the www.TheCreatorsCalendar.com website address clearly posted in association with them on your site. There are countless hours in the research and development of both our art and illustrations. In utilizing our presentations properly you honor us, and we thank you in advance.
  3. We at www.TheCreatorsCalendar.com have asked permission to use the articles and video's from multiple websites. In doing so we always post the author's name and website if and when there is one.

Other reasoning for these measures include, but not limited to the following. It has been noted on sites in the past where our articles have been used, 1) slightly altered and the original message of the article has become misrepresentative of our beliefs. 2) all or parts of our articles have been used without the diligent research, time and efforts due, yet the viewers of other sites falsely perceive these studies to be masterminded by the site they are currently viewing.

We truly thank each of you in advance for your understanding and cooperation concerning this matter. Please see this as us doing our "due diligence." In the long run, it will be a greater blessing to all.

Your friends and fellow truth seekers at www.TheCreatorsCalendar.com

Kerrie L. French
David Vander Toorn